Understanding the "21 Off" Designation in Footprint Handbooks

The "21 Off" designation, found on the 2017 Footprint South American Handbook, refers to a specific printing or revision number. Footprint publishes updated editions annually, often incorporating corrections, updated information on transportation, accommodations, and local conditions. The "21 Off" likely reflects a later print run within the 2017 edition's lifecycle, potentially incorporating minor revisions or corrections to the original print. While the core content remains the same, subtle differences might exist between the initial printing and subsequent ones like "21 Off." This highlights the importance of checking the printing details if you're sourcing a used copy. This information, while seemingly small, ensures you receive the most up-to-date version available within that particular year.
